HEMEROCALLIS

Beauty for a day, you say?
But I say not for just a day—
You forget those shiny ebony seeds,
Lovelier than any bright onyx beads.
You forget those emerald fair wings
As they first appear for their earthly fling.
So soon they become a ramet, a fan,
So rich and broad and green beside the path of man.
You forget the tiny curled scape
As it slowly unfurls for beauty's gay escape.
Ne'er can you forget those buds—tiny, but like the fern fronds,
Some so pale, so dainty, some rare, holding beauty untold.
Then the first flower—so pale, or bright or very bold.
Beauty for a day, you say?
No, I say, not for just a day,
But beauty for each true gardener from May till May.

1954 INTRODUCTIONS

McDonald Nurseries is happy again in releasing Mrs. Register's newest Daylily introductions. They have been tested in Valdosta gardens, in our own test plots, and in various parts of the country.

The Register strain of Hemerocallis, introduced in 1951 for the first time, were enthusiastically received in Valdosta and other localities. We believe these are "Individuals" in the Hemerocallis world. They are unique in color and form and are receiving warm praise wherever they are being grown.
